Serbs obstinate; U.N. contemplates troop withdrawal

By Srecko Latal
The Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina - Snubbed by Serbs and unable to arrange a ceasefire, U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali said Wednesday it may be time to send peacekeepers home.

Unless the Bosnian Serbs and Muslim-led government agree to talk peace and cooperate with the United Nations, "it will become impossible" to persuade the Security Council to keep peacekeepers in Bosnia, he said after a six-hour visit to Sarajevo.

But he said he will not recommend a pullout "for the time being."

Boutros-Ghali's remarks were the first time he has threatened a withdrawal. They reflect a growing frustration as the Serbs continue their assault on Bihac, the Muslim-led government refuses new concessions, U.N. peacekeepers are being held hostage and the Western alliance is divided about how to respond.

A decision to withdraw the 24,000 peacekeepers would come from the Security Council, where there is "absolutely no evidence" of support for a withdrawal, said Colin Keating, New Zealand's U.N. ambassador.

French Ambassador Jean-Bernard Merimee said "there is no question" of a withdrawal,

Stamp prices to jump three cents

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - It'll cost 32 cents to mail a letter starting in January under new rates approved today by the Postal Rate Commission.

The 3-cent increase, recommended by the post office, will mean an extra 60 to 75 cents per month in mailing costs for the typical household.

The independent commission also approved the price of sending a post card jump from 19 cents to 20 cents, a penny less than the post office had requested.

And the commission refused to go along with a Postal Service request that each additional ounce of First Class mail cost 25 cents, deciding instead that the extra weight charge should remain at the current 23 cents.

The commission rejected the post office's plan to raise rates about 10.3 percent for other classes of mail, calling for increases averaging 14 percent for second-class periodicals, third-class advertising and fourth-class packages.

The rate commission's decision could take effect as soon as Jan. 1. The date will be set by the post office's governing board.

General fee control debate continues

USG plans meeting with Olscamp to discuss expenditure responsibilities

By Robin Coe
The BG News

Undergraduate Student Government is making plans to meet with President Olscamp to discuss taking larger control of general fee expenditure responsibilities.

Former USG President Jason Jackson formed the general fee reallocation task force in October 1993 for students to gain control of the general fee.

USG President Jennifer Mathe and vice president Bill Wilson were members of this task force.

Wilson said 100 percent of the general fee goes to student activities and needs, but only four percent of this money is controlled by the students. Students should have larger control of the money which exists solely to provide for their needs, he said.

"It's time for students to get power around here," Wilson said.

USG wants the Advisory Committee for General Fee Allocation to control all general fee allocations, except intercollegiate athletics and debt services.

ACGFA currently represents the students and controls four percent of the general fee. The committee has 18 voting seats. USG appoints five students to this committee and the Graduate Student Senate appoints two students. The Black Student Union, international student groups and the Latino Student Union each facilitate the appointment of one member.

In addition, off-campus and commuter students, RSA and Third World graduate students each send one representative. Womyn for Womyn also sends a representative with the advisement of other womens studies groups.

Interfraternity Council, the Panhellenic Council and the National Panhellenic Council each alternate a position on the committee. There is also one representative each for faculty, administration and classified.

ACGFA was created in the fiscal year of 1974-75.

"Right now Faculty Senate has control over where [most of the general fee] goes," Wilson said.

He said USG has examined other universities in Ohio.

"It's something that has taken place around the state," Wilson said.

University organizations have partial decision in allocation of student fund

By Lawrence Hannan
The BG News

Even though student organizations do not have the control they would like over the General Fee Allocations, they have had varying degrees of control over the fee allocations for a long time.

According to Christopher Dalton, vice president for planning and budgeting, the General Fee was established as a comprehensive activity fee for student health and special services. The General Fee paid by every student was $50 a quarter. The University switched to semesters in 1982. The current general fee paid by each student for each semester is $330.

The student controlled Advisory Committee on General Fee Allocations currently allocates $372,818. The students have no direct control over the rest of the $10.7 million in the General Fee.

Dalton said the General Fee was originally established in 1969 and ACGFA followed in 1974.

"The general fee and ACGFA were designed to cover general activities and organizations in an equitable way," Dalton said.

Dalton said in the late 1970's ACGFA allocated a much larger amount of the general fee. After complaints arose about some of their allocations to athletic programs their power was reduced.

Gregory DeCrane, assistant vice-president for student activities and orientation said ACGFA's power was also reduced because of a perceived bias within ACGFA.

"ACGFA had become an all white, male, Greek, organization that tended to favor white, male Greek organizations monetarily," he said. "Ferrari [who was then acting president due to the death of Hollis Moore] felt that the process had become blatantly unfair and removed a lot of ACGFA's power."

Dalton also said the general fee had certain items that had to be paid every year. For example, the football and hockey stadiums were built on loans that take 40 years to pay off. Those debts must come first.

"The law says we can only charge two fees to students," Dalton said. "Those fees are the general fee and the institutional fee [The residential fee is separate]."

Robert Arrowsmith, former vice president for student affairs, was active in the planning of ACGFA when it was first created.

"It was [former University president] Hollis Moore who got students involved in the process and started ACGFA," Arrowsmith said. "He felt students should be more involved."

"ACGFA was originally a sub-committee of the main budget committee," he said. "Later it became a committee of its own." Arrowsmith said the ACGFA process now in place is a fundamentally sound one.

"I don't think there's any reason to tinker with the process we have now," Arrowsmith said.

AIDS day a chance to remember victims

Today all over the world, ribbons will be worn, programs will take place, and people will remember friends and family members as World AIDS Day is observed.

The annual day serves to bring special attention to the disease and devastation it has wrought to both the people of this nation and to citizens around the world.

Observance of this day also serves as an educational tool. Ignorance about the most common facts concerning HIV and AIDS leads to the misinformation, idle fears and prejudices.

Too many people are still unaware of the facts about HIV and AIDS, thinking there is no way they can get it. Yet on the other hand, there are still people who are afraid they can contract the HIV virus which causes AIDS through casual contact.

HIV can only be transmitted by contact with blood, semen, vaginal fluid or breast milk of an infected person, not through simply touching someone.

While the quality of education has increased and improved through the years since the virus first appeared, more AIDS education is needed.

At the same time, however, there needs to be more of an effort by the general public to know more about HIV and AIDS and to take advantage of the opportunities to be informed. One such opportunity is World AIDS Day.

In Wood County alone, 23 people have been diagnosed with AIDS since the epidemic began, according to the Wood County Health Department. There could be many more who have the virus and do not know it.

Therefore, it is important for people to be informed and to get an AIDS test, which they can do at the Student Health Center, if they have any doubt at all that they may have it.

All this week, in conjunction with World AIDS Day, the Student Organizations Programmers Council and several University organizations have been sponsoring several programs to promote awareness of AIDS and inform people of how to support those who have it.

The News believes students should attend at least one of these events, if they haven't already, and take advantage of World AIDS Day to reflect on the devastation the HIV and AIDS have already caused both locally and worldwide.

Society lives up to expectations

This past weekend I went home, like most of us did, to enjoy some time with my family and get some good homemade food. And although the time I spent with them consisted of mostly sleeping to put off doing my homework, one thing that happened to me made the whole weekend worth it.

For years, I thought the state of the world was getting worse. Everytime I pick up a paper and read it, I seem to be reading something bad. About someone getting killed - sometimes near, such as in the recent shootings at an East Cleveland school, other times far away, such as the war going on in Somalia and problems in the Middle East.

Then I get to the stories where I read about how the Republicans and Democrats are bickering again as to how to run the country. Other times it is about how someone robbed someone else or is suing someone. Sometimes, it just makes me sick and want to lose all faith in humanity.

But then, there was this past weekend.

I had stayed up here Tuesday night and remained here until mid-Wednesday. I finally got out of here about noon and rushed right home, all excited to get a home-cooked meal before I had to race into work. Since I had to unpack my laundry and get some things done, I was rushed and left for work late after eating dinner.

After traveling the 20-plus minutes to my exit for work, I pulled up to a red light as the first car going in my direction. The four-way intersection was very busy, being about 5 p.m. at a major exit.

Then I noticed to my right there was a hearse leading a funeral procession. The first thing I thought was of was how the family must be in bad shape, losing a loved one so close to Thanksgiving. Then I thought about how waiting for this will make me more late for work, but I did not care. I have always been one to respect the dead and honor them - I even took my hat off while I waited.

And then the light turned green for the other direction and the funeral procession moved out. And was it ever long.

But, for the first time in quite a while, I received a very pleasant surprise from society - not a single car moved as the funeral procession moved through the intersection for two light changes. Everyone sat there and not even a car inched out into the intersection in hopes of getting through.

Now, to a lot of people, this may not mean a lot. But to me, who has lost a couple friends and some hope that society is still a completely nice place, this meant a lot. For a while now I have been shown that society has a lot of selfish people who would not take the time to perform acts like this.

But this weekend, I was shown differently. I was shown that there are things for which to be thankful. There are people out there that still give people some respect.

Recycling program is exceptional

Recycling is one of the most basic and least controversial actions one can take to help improve the state of our environment. And thanks to the scope of our University recycling program, recycling is especially easy at the University.

Unfortunately, someone at the University is working to make recycling less convenient in the name of aesthetics.

Edward Whipple, the new vice president of student affairs, said the yellow recycling barrels situated around campus give the impression that this University runs a "trashy operation."

He has required the movement on the centrally located collection areas on each floor of Rodgers Hall to closets at the far end of only the top three floors.

He has also required the removal of the paper and can barrels from the top floors of the Student Services building until special cabinets can be built to hide them: a project which will cost over $400 per cabinet.

I personally strongly object to seeing money from the Student Affairs budget being used to try to cover up the fact that we recycle.

It also seems ironic to me that the person in charge of "student affairs," Whipple would stand in the way of the program that is largely student staffed and supported.

Instead of regarding our campus' yellow bearrels as a source of embarrassment, Whipple should be proud of the fact that his new University has the strong recycling program that it does proud that our recycling program was the 1993 recipient of the Take Pride Ohio Award as the best government recycling program in the state; proud that we are taking steps to reduce the waste of our planet's natural resources; and proud that as an institution of higher learning, we are setting an example of positive waste management alternatives for the rest of the community.

By trying to decrease the visibility and accessibility of recycling in these two buildings, Whipple is setting a negative precedent for the rest of the University.

Our school's recycling program has made amazing progress in the last four years. I am asking Whipple others in similar positions of power not to force the program to take steps backward.

Water lacking heat in residence hall

As I make my long walk down the hall with my towel, shampoo and soap in hand, I dread what is coming.

I live in MacDonald West, and I am sick of the water in our showers being cool. This is a problem that needs to be resolved.

Two weeks ago my friend who stays in Batchelder stayed in my room. "I sure do love cool showers," she commented after her shower. "We never have a problem with hot water." There have been complaints, and nothing is being done.

Not having hot water is a hassle and a nuisance.

A sign was hung on the back of the bathroom door a few weeks ago. The MacDonald West Hall Council wanted to know our complaints and concerns. A few days later the sign was gone and another one, exactly like the first one, was hung.

Presently the sign is still hanging. There were numerous complaints made by many different women about the temperature of the water. So far no changes have been made.

My roommate and I at first, joked about the problem. We found it very humorous to be able to turn the water faucet all the way to hot and still get cool water. The other day my roommate went into the showers to begin her bathing ritual. She turned the water on all the way to hot. It took at least a minute and a half for the water to start warming up.

"After a few minutes I got in the shower and it still was not as hot as I would have liked it. It never did get that hot," she explained. After complaints to the resident assistant and "suggestions" to the hall council it is not a laughing matter.

In the beginning of the school year, I took a shower every morning. I always had a cool shower. I now take one in the afternoon, and the water is still the same.

I took a walk down my hall and asked others what they thought about the showers. One woman told me that no matter what time she takes a shower, be it morning, afternoon, or night, the water is not as hot as she would like it to be. Someone else told me that to them it is an inconvenience. After being stressed out all day, a nice hot shower helps one to relax. When it is freezing in the shower, this is not possible.

I am new to MacDonald West, but from what I have heard, these are remodeled, new and improved bathrooms. After new sinks, new stalls and handicapped-accessible everything, why is hot water such a hard item to attain?

One solution to this problem could be very easy or could be very difficult. Expanding the bathrooms by adding more showers would be of great help.

Right now there are about 60 women to four showers. The problem might be something bigger than this. Perhaps when the bathrooms were updated the boiler, or what heats the water was not. MacDonald Quad may have the purchase of a new boiler or something else in store in the next few years.

While we all stand freezing cold in the showers, there are many things that could be done. I know it is going to cost money to improve the present situation.

Presently it cost me a dollar in quarters to wash and dry one load of laundry. It takes about one half hour to wash a load of clothes in hot water. It takes me almost one half hour to take a shower.

If I knew for sure that I could have a hot shower, I would not mind paying.

Shakur shot

NEW YORK -- Tupac Shakur was shot during a robbery attempt outside a music studio early Wednesday.

The rapper and actor was in guarded condition, and was conscious and alert, said Bellevue Hospital Center administrator Wesley Anglin.

Shakur, 23, and two other men were entering the Quad Recording Studio in midtown Manhattan about 12:30 a.m. when three men tried to rob them, said Sgt. James Coleman, a police spokesman.

The bandits shot Shakur in the groin and head and pumped two shots into his companion's abdomen, Coleman said. The third man apparently was uninjured, he said.

Shakur's companion was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital. His condition was not immediately available.

A Manhattan jury is deliberating sexual assault charges against Shakur. Prosecutors say he lured a woman to his hotel room in November 1993 for a gang sex attack.

Breast cancer test difficult

NEW YORK -- Studies suggest it may be difficult to develop a reliable test to determine which women carry a dangerous form of a newfound breast cancer gene, a researcher says.

"I think women may be faced with more uncertainty than perhaps they would like in a test like this because of the difficulties in doing the test," said researcher Barbara Weber of the University of Pennsylvania.

GENERAL FEE

Jason Peters, USG at-large senator, was also involved in the general fee reallocation task force Jackson created last year. "The biggest change is we want ACGFA to have 100 percent of [general fee allocation] responsibility," Peters said. "To draw from Jackson's analogy, it's like the way it is if you walked into a supermarket, give them your money and they get your food themselves," he said. "It's almost derogatory to the students. I think we're responsible enough." He said USG has been waiting since last February to hear what the Board of Trustees think of the proposal. Jackson's task force presented the idea to President Olskamp last January. "[Olskamp] seemed to like it, he took it with enthusiasm to the Board of Trustees," Peters said.

"We've been waiting patiently to hear from them." When Jackson first created the task force in October 1993 it seemed like a futile attempt, Peters said. He said after the committee met with Olskamp in January 1994 it seemed like the faculty was on USG's side. "That makes us optimistic," Peters said. Mathe said all plans for switching the power of general fee allocation over to the students are currently in a stall until USG can meet with Olskamp to discuss USG's proposals and find out where faculty stands on the issue.

USG is currently meeting with administrators and preparing proposals to present to University President Paul Olskamp the second week in December. "There's a lot of fine tuning that needs to be done," Mathe said. She said Olskamp currently does not understand why USG wants ACGFA to take over the general fee allocations. They will meet with Olskamp and the Board of trustees to make requests clear and to find out where the faculty stands. "It's up to the ultimate approval of the Board of Trustees," Mathe said. If ACGFA takes control over the general fee allocations all proposals may still have to go through Olskamp and to the Board of Trustees. The Graduate Student Senate, which has two representatives in ACGFA, has not decided whether the organization will support USG's requests. However, GSS President David Vaillancourt said students need to have more input in the general fee process, more than just having ACGFA.

"Students need to be active in some process in order to make recommendations about all areas supported by the general fee," he said. GSS is currently working on legislation concerning having more student input about the general fee. One concern about ACGFA is that GSS representatives were not allowed an alternate and lost their votes for the meetings that neither of the two representative could attend in the past. In the past, ACGFA meetings were Saturday and Sunday for five weeks straight. "There are definite changes that would make it an easier process," Vaillancourt said.

GSS vice president Edward Eaton said the faculty committees that currently control a high percentage of the general fee are doing a good job, and ACGFA should not have that much control of the general fee. "A lot of people would run this school into the ground if they had a chance," Eaton said. He said ACGFA may not distribute the money where it is needed most. Vaillancourt said he is worried about the structure of ACGFA, and in the past there has been an attendance problem with many members because meetings are during four to five consecutive weekends and representatives cannot have alternatives.

Mathe said the meetings will probably be set up differently this year. "We're hoping to avoid weekend meetings this time for the convenience of the members of the board," she said. She said attendance has been a problem with all representatives. USG has not proposed altering the structure or the by-laws of the actual ACGFA committee, she said. "That doesn't necessarily mean that we would not take any alterations of the proposal into consideration," Mathe said. "We want ACGFA to be as representative as possible, and if those changes will make that possible then USG will support them." Eaton agreed it is questionable how well ACGFA can handle the allocation of more general fees, and how well it can represent the needs of graduate students. "I think in general the University administration is doing a good job," Eaton said. All graduate students pay general fees. However, those with assistantships do not have to pay cash. Instead, the cost of the general fee is taken out of the assistantship salary, Vaillancourt said.

"but if the situation continues to deteriorate, it will be more difficult to keep the troops there." More than 200,000 are dead or missing in the 31-month conflict launched by Serbs who rebelled against a Muslim-Croat vote to declare independence from Serb-led Yugoslavia. Serbs have rejected a peace plan that would reduce their holdings in Bosnia to 49 percent from about 70 percent. Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic told Boutros-Ghali that Bosnia would negotiate only if Serbs accept the plan. He said the government has proposed a three-month cease-fire, but the Serbs want something more permanent. Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic refused even to meet Boutros-Ghali. The U.N. chief said Karadzic "has done his people a great disservice." The Bosnian Serbs wouldn't mind seeing the United Nations leave Bosnia, believing it would allow them to force the government to settle on Serb terms. Boutros-Ghali's visit followed admissions from top U.S. and NATO officials that they can't force a solution to the conflict without a huge ground force no one is willing to provide.

UT football player sentenced

By Aaron Epple
The BG News

Judge Gale Williamson sentenced former University of Toledo football player Troy Parker Wednesday to 15 years in prison.

Parker received consecutive sentences of 10 to 25 years, one of which will be actual prison time, for rape and felonious sexual penetration, a concurrent sentence of five to 25 years for aggravated burglary and a concurrent sentence of one and one half years for gross sexual imposition. "There's a cap on the sentence," prosecuting attorney Gary Bishop said. "So the most he'll ever serve is 15 years."

Parker receives 15 years for rape, imposition, burglary, penetration

Defense attorney James Banks mentioned Parker's lack of a criminal background, his religious upbringing, and the credit due his family.

"His mom, dad and girlfriend have been here throughout," he said.

Judge Williamson received supporting letters from Parker's girlfriend, UT football coach Gary Pinkel, and UT athletic director Allen Bohl.

Bishop said the letters did not reflect Parker's true character.

"He's not a teenager," he said, "He's old enough to take responsibility for what he does. It's hard to challenge someone's character, but he's done something that gives us real insight into his real character, despite any supporting letters."

"This was pre-meditated and predatory in nature. He stalked her, he forced her to engage in acts that are abominable."

Bishop also cited Parker's apparent calmness and lack of remorse.

On his own behalf, Parker apologized to his family for "putting them through this," and to the court for taking up its time. He also thanked Banks.

Williamson said Parker had many things going for him, but he chose to squander it. "You lost opportunities, and you had the intelligence to capitalize on them," Williamson said to Parker.

Bishop said he was happy with the sentence.

"You have to have admiration for the victim in coming forward," he said, "Justice can be attained."

Banks said he believed the sentence fit the crime. However, he also said he believed the jury misinterpreted trial testimony.

"I think the jury listened a great deal to what the police officers had to say, and they only interpreted what Parker said," Banks said.

with the sentence.

Banks said he believed the sentence fit the crime. However, he also said he believed the jury misinterpreted trial testimony.

"I think the jury listened a great deal to what the police officers had to say, and they only interpreted what Parker said," Banks said.

He said he was concerned about the lack of hard evidence in the case.

"There was a reasonable doubt," he said, "There was no overwhelming evidence, no signed confession or anything."

Banks said he believes Parker is innocent and plans to appeal the case.

Ohio gives city funds for transportation

By Nicole Pankuch
The BG News

The elderly and disabled of Bowling Green will be able to continue using the city's public transportation at reduced fares.

The Ohio Department of Transportation recently awarded the city $10,375 to be put toward creating easier access to the city's transportation systems for senior citizens and the physically challenged, according to Ron Poole, ODOT public information officer.

The city offers public transportation through the taxicabs, and privately contracts out through BG Taxi, according to Carolyn Linebeck, the city's grants administrator.

The Elderly and Disabled Transit Fare Assistance Grant is sponsored by ODOT funds and was allocated by the Ohio General Assembly, Poole said.

"[These grants] are available to all qualified transit providers who offer reduced fares to their elderly and disabled customers," Poole said.

The grant subsidizes the city for providing reduced fares for the elderly and disabled, according to Linebeck.

The normal fare for riding the taxis is $2, and is reduced to $1 for the elderly and disabled, Linebeck said.

"[This grant] offsets the difference the city has by providing reduced fares," Linebeck said. "It does not cover the entire difference, but does provide some added funds."

In 1993, the city had 52,004 taxicab customers and 26,833 users of the taxicabs were elderly or disabled, Linebeck said. Because of the reduced fare, the city loses about $26,833. So, the grant subsidizes less than half of the difference of the lost revenue.

Bowling Green has received this grant every year as a way to encourage the city to continue giving the elderly and disabled citizens reduced fares to use the public transportation, Linebeck said.

"This grant will enable the elderly and disabled citizens of the city of Bowling Green to enjoy easier access to basic transportation services," said Jerry Wray, director of the Ohio Department of Transportation.

Falcons falter in second stanza

Women's basketball team looking to rebound against YSU Penguins

By Scott Brown
The BG News

The first 15 minutes of the Bowling Green women's opening game seemed to be a continuation of where the Falcons left off the past two seasons, sitting pretty atop the MAC.

But 15 minutes does not a game make, much less a season, as the Falcons learned first hand during their 78-62 loss at the hands of the Musketeers. Bowling Green heads into tonight's home opener versus Youngstown State at Anderson Arena with an 0-1 record.

Head coach Jaci Clark was as pleased as a coach could be after the first 15 minutes, which saw them ahead well into the double digits.

"The first 15 minutes against Xavier were the best 15 we've played so far," Clark said. "We need to continue to build on that. We came out strong and dominated nearly everything against Xavier early on."

The second half collapse was a direct result of a faltering rebound game. The Falcons controlled the boards early, but let Xavier hit the glass continually in the second half. The Musketeers grabbed an astounding 16 offensive rebounds in the second half alone on the way to outboarding the Falcons 55-43. Clark was more appalled than astounded by those numbers.

"Rebounding is one of our strengths, but we just didn't get on the boards like we should of against Xavier," Clark said.

Bowling Green could only muster a 40 percent shooting performance from the floor in the game. Guard Jenny Kulics made only 5-of-16 shots -- 3-for-13 from beyond the arc -- and Michelle Shade shot an unpar 7-for-17.

"A lot of that comes with shot selection," Clark said. "We weren't very patient when Xavier went to the zone. We would throw one pass and then shoot the ball. When that happens, it speeds everything up. We need to realize that we have time on the shot clock and move the ball around and use that time up."

Shade was the leading scorer with 14 points, and Kulics added 13. Freshman Sara Puthoff, in her first-ever collegiate game, came off the bench to score 14 points to tie for the team lead. Puthoff continues to shine coming off the bench. "She's playing very well," Clark said. "She does not get rattled very easily. She's very calm and collected. She's going to be a very good player. I think a lot of people have realized that already."

Blackney remains uncertain of status for MSU position

By Glen Lubbert
The BG News

With an announcement concerning the next head coach of Michigan State expected within the next week, Gary Blackney is still unsure of where he stands.

"I'm not sitting by the phone, if that's any indication," Blackney said Wednesday evening.

Blackney interviewed at Michigan State last week as well as Iowa State. However, the Cyclones named Dan McCarney as head coach. But Blackney's main interest has been in the Spartan head coaching job.

"My name is in the hat," Blackney said, concerning the MSU head coach position.

Other names reported to have interviewed for the position are Penn State offensive coordinator Fran Ganter, Cleveland Browns defensive coordinator and former MSU defensive coordinator Nick Saban, Kansas City Chiefs running backs coach Jimmy Raye, Green Bay Packers offensive coordinator Sherm Lewis and Youngstown State

Currently the position is under review by MSU President Peter McPherson, according to Michigan State Board of Trustee member Bob Weiss. The president then makes a recommendation to the board, followed by the board's decision for the 22nd head coach of the Spartans.

"Some point before next Friday, he will be making a recommendation," Weiss said.

Weiss suspects that the recommendation will be made before next Friday to facilitate the recruiting season.

"When we decide we have the best person for the job, we will make the selection," said Terry Denbow, Michigan State public relations director. "There is no set date for the Board of Trustees to make a decision. The president recommends to the board who he thinks is the best person for the job. That's where we're at right now."

Blackney met with University President Paul Olscamp to discuss the Falcon football program Tuesday morning.

"Some of [the meeting] was private conversations about what Gary felt his needs were for the football program, particularly his assistant coaches," Olscamp said. "But beyond that, I'm not prepared to comment."

However, Olscamp said he is not startled to learn of Blackney's interviews with other Universities.

"Well, there is really nothing for me to say except that Gary is very good at his job and I'm not the least bit surprised that other programs are interested in interviewing him," Olscamp said. "Other than the fact that he has been interviewed by Michigan State and was interviewed by Iowa State, I really don't know anything more about it."

Falcon athletic director Ron Zwierlein did not want to comment Wednesday on Blackney's interviews at Michigan State or Iowa State. He also said the reports concerning certain schools he could leave Bowling Green for, before his contract had expired, were untrue.

When Blackney first came to the University, there was an addendum to his contract concerning certain schools, according to Zwierlein. However, that was written in an older contract and is no longer applicable.

"I can't comment on [Blackney's interviews]," Zwierlein said. "I can tell you that Gary and I have been in conversation all along. There are always people, when you're successful, looking to lure a coach away."

"I firmly believe the situation would have to be right for Gary Blackney. It's not something that is purely monetary in nature. I don't think it is just based on his own situation or his own betterment. I think he would look at the total picture before he would make a decision to go elsewhere."

Marquette rallies past OSU

By Rusty Miller
The Associated Press

COLUMBUS -- Anthony Pieper scored 15 of his career-high 22 points in the second half as Marquette overcame a 10-point deficit to beat Ohio State 82-70 Wednesday night.

Roney Eford scored 18 points and had 10 rebounds and Amal McCaskill had 11 points for the Golden Eagles (2-0).

Rick Yudd and Tony Watson each had career highs for Ohio State (1-2), scoring 23 and 20 points, respectively. But the other three starters for the Buckeyes combined for just 10 points.

Ohio State scored the first eight points of the second half -- c five by Yudd and a 3-pointer by Robert Shelton -- to go ahead 47-37 at the 17:47 mark.

After a timeout, however, Marquette not only came back but also took over the game.

Elford opened the surge with a 12-footer while being fouled as the Golden Eagles ran off nine points in a row to pull to 47-46.

Baskets by Watson and Davis pushed Ohio State to a 53-49 lead, but then Marquette went on a 19-5 tear. Over the eight-minute period, the Buckeyes hit just two of 17 shots from the field.

Women's club hockey team to face off against Buckeyes

The BG News

The Bowling Green women's club hockey team will try to continue its dominance over Ohio State Saturday at the Ice Arena. The first game starts at 6:45 p.m. and will be followed by a 10:15 p.m. contest.

The last time the Falcons faced off against the Buckeyes they walked away with two decisive victories.

Under the direction of Dr. Laura Leventhal the team jumped out to an early lead when Sharon Spaeth beat the OSU goalie with 14:15 left in the period. The goals continued to pour in for the Falcons as they hammered the Buckeyes 11-0.

Spaeth led the offensive attack by scoring six goals and assisting on another. Also scoring for the Falcons were Lisa Maselli and Karen Guillbault who each scored twice while Jennifer Rypel also chipped in with a score.

The next game against OSU proved to be a near carbon copy as BG pasted the Scarlet and Gray to the tune of an 11-1 score.

Club volleyball anxious to start

By Andrew Punzal
The BG News

Following a tumultuous inaugural season, the Bowling Green women's club volleyball team is ready to begin its 1994-95 campaign.

After losing 13 players from last year's squad, the team only returns five players -- b however, 22 new faces can also be found on the roster.

"I was pleased to see the large turnout for tryouts," head coach Jeff Merrill said. "We had about 70 girls come out for this year's squad which is a lot more than last year."

After a rocky first year, the team is looking to improve, something that Merrill is very optimistic about.

"Although were a young team, I'm optimistic about our chances this season," Merrill said. "We have a solid core of returning players from last year which provides us with some experience at the college level."

"Additionally, we have a healthy mix of older and younger players joining us this season giving us a combination of youthful exuberance and veteran leadership. I think we are going to be very competitive, and tough to beat in the Midwest region this year."

Returning from last year's squad are club co-presidents Shay Cooke and Susan DePompei. Colleen Bury, Julie Wilson and Nikki Sroufe round out the returning players. These five will be expected to provide a steady guiding force to the young team throughout the season.

New faces joining the team include graduate student Alega Scriber, seniors Terri Andreoni and Amy Haida. The junior class is represented by Carrie Bilderback, Shelley Mattis and Stacey Scarbrough.

"Although were a young team, I'm optimistic about our chances this season."

women's club volleyball head coach

Sophomores on the roster include Lindsay Black, Lisa Cerra, Jen Parlette, Shannon Painter and Erin Siebenhar. Rounding out the team are freshmen Angie Carroll, Julie Cervenka, Mary Dietrick, Karla Jacobs, Karla Karl, Megan Lehman, Danielle McConnell, Kim Milet, Jenny Schimmoeller, Tara Stanislawski and Theresa Trebets.

With three teams of nine players each, Merrill hopes to foster a competitive atmosphere among the players.

"With three teams we can have intersquad scrimmages to help the players get used to each others styles," Merrill said. "Additionally, we hope to enter tournaments with multiple teams in different pools with the goal of playing each other in the finals. Although we don't start playing until the spring, we are already practicing to get familiar with each other."

change of possession -- a rebound is like a defensive stop.

"It comes down to our execution. Right now we have to be worried about ourselves and doing the things we need to be doing."

This game against the Penguins marks the midway point of a brutal early stretch for the Bowling Green women. About eight hours after the completion of tonight's game, they will board a red eye flight to Arizona to compete in the Dial Classic at Arizona State on Saturday and Sunday.

"I think maybe the best thing is that we are going to play so much this week," Clark said. "We get one day to practice for Thursday, and then we have to play again. Tonight's tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m."

Dear Red,
Yes, I'll join you in "Personal Quest." I can't wait for the opportunity to learn about wellness issues such as fitness, nutrition, stress, & time management, and goal setting with you (and the graduate student instructor)! I called the Rec Center (2-7482) to register. After the weekly hour-long meetings (there are many different times to choose from) begin the week of January 23rd, we'll have 8 weeks to get acquainted and meet our goals, together, before spring break!

Lee,
Thanks for the tip about "Personal Quest." I called the Rec Center (2-7482) and found out it meets weekly from Jan. 23rd until Spring Break and I can choose from several meeting times. A trained graduate student leads the hour-long meeting to help me set personal self-improvement goals. I'll also learn about nutrition, fitness, stress, & time management and other wellness topics. If you haven't signed up yet, it's not too late! Call or stop by the Rec Center! Here's to keeping our New Year's Resolution!
